Public Health Information on the Web

MLA Accredited Class

Friday, July 24th, 2009
12:30PM – 4:30PM

Albany Medical College

The field of public health encompasses a wide array of disciplines including health education, epidemiology and nursing. Digital literacy and the effective utilization of online information are among the core public health informatics competencies for the 21st century. This hands-on class will highlight web resources tailored to the public health workforce.

After this class, participants will be able to:

- Discuss the role of information in the public health environment
- Identify resources to support health education and promotional programs and activities
- Retrieve information in support of evidence-based public health
- Obtain data sets and statistics relevant to public health on a state, local and national level
- Identify resources available to stay informed of developments related to public health

This hands-on class provides 4 MLA CE credit hours.

Instructor: Arpita Bose, Outreach and Communications Coordinator, Middle Atlantic Region – NN/LM
